I. C. C. APPROVES NORTHERN RAILWAY MERGER

BURLINGTON IS EXCLUDED FROM N. P.-G. N. MERGER

BURLINGTON AT PRESENT IS JOINTLY OWNED BY TWO NORTHERN ROADS

COMBINED SYSTEM OF N. P. AND G. N. WOULD BE ONE OF THE LONGEST IN COUNTRY

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The interstate commerce commission today announced conditional approval of the Great Northern-Northern Pacific railway merger, excluding the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road, now jointly owned by the two railroads.

The Great Northern Company operates 8,164 miles, of which 558 are in Canada. The Northern Pacific railway operates 6,668 miles, of which 74 miles are operated under trackage rights in Canada.

The combined system would be one of the longest railroads in the country.

A new company would be created which would hold securities for the two companies for a period of 99 years, under the unification plan. The commission ordered that the Burlington "shall be divorced from control by the Northern companies within a reasonable period."

The new corporation would be called the Great Northern Pacific Railway Company.

This corporation is authorized to lease the properties of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle Railway.

The two Northern roads asked control of the Burlington because they hold 97 per cent of the capital stock of that company which operates about 11,473 miles of line.

In rejecting this, the commission pointed out "by consolidating the accounting department of the Northern lines and the Spokane Company, it is estimated that an annual saving of $669,399 can be effected."

The commission pointed out the two Northern lines serve a total of 3,619 stations of which 96.1 per cent are non-competitive and that only 50 competitive points are served exclusively by the two roads.

The proposal of the two Northern lines to operate the Montana Western railway, a line connecting with the Great Northern at Conrad, Mont., and the Nez Perce and Idaho railroad which connects with the Camas Prairie at Craigmont, Idaho, is cared for under the commission's consolidation plan, the decision said.

The decision also required "suitable assurance that the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad company may have access from Spokane to Portland and intervening points over the lines of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railway company as provided in the said plan of consolidation."

Chairman McManamy and Commissioner Eastman dissented from the commission's decision.

McManamy declared the consolidation was "in complete disregard of the specific mandate of congress that 'competition shall be preserved as fully as possible.'"

Eastman said "the practicability of really divorcing the Burlington from the Northern lines is in itself a matter of grave doubt," pointing out its stock is now pledged under mortgages of both roads.

Exclusion of the Burlington from the merger, the commission said, does not mean that the Northern system question was not up for decision now, should be denied a permanent entrance into the Chicago district. That it added.

Approval of the Northern unification was made, the commission added, in the light of general railway consolidation principles as outlined in its recent final merger plan for the nation. Foremost among considerations favoring the merger is the possibility of large operating economies.

Among the conditions to approval of the merger was a finding that a comprehensive policy of terminal unification of the two roads should be developed.

St. Paul, Feb. 21.—Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, today said any acceptable merger plan for the Northern Pacific and Great Northern should include a provision for trackage rights between St. Paul and Chicago.

Donnelly explained that under the present system the Northerns use the Burlington tracks eastward from St. Paul. The latest ruling of the interstate commerce commission would divorce the Burlington from the Great Northern and Northern Pacific unification, leaving the Northerns without trackage on the eastern divisions.

Donnelly said he would reserve comment on today's ruling of the commission until he had seen the complete decision.

"Executives and stockholders of the two roads feel that an outlet to Chicago is necessary in any unification plan," the Northern Pacific president said. "We are confident both companies will maintain this attitude."

ST. PAUL MEN'S CLUB TO SERVE CHURCH DINNER

St. Paul, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The Men's club of St. Paul's Evangelical church will serve the weekly church dinner tonight.

As a challenge to their wives, who said they never could do it, the men's organization of the church undertook to plan, prepare and serve tonight's dinner.

Of course, the men, if they are truthful will admit that the women told them how much food to buy, how to set the tables, how to cut eight instead of six pieces from a pie, whether coffee should be served with the dinner or with the dessert, and a few other "minor" details.

FIRST WOMAN TO BE EXECUTED IN ARIZONA STATE

MRS. EVA DUGAN, 52, DROPPED TO HER DEATH FROM GALLOWES

DIES FOR MURDER IN 1927 OF A. J. MATHIS, A TUCSON RANCHER

By DENNIS LANDRY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

State Prison, Florence, Ariz., Feb. 21.—The first woman ever to be executed by the state of Arizona, Mrs. Eva Dugan, 52, was dropped to her death from a gallows here today.

Her body, draped only in a cheap wrapper—for she decided at the last moment the silk shroud she made with her own hands "might get mussed"—went through the trap at 4:11 A. M. PST.

She fell through a hole in the floor on the execution chamber to a room below. Death was instantaneous for the rope, when it snapped at the end of the drop, severed her head from her body.

The flabbiness of the tissues of Mrs. Dugan's neck caused by a wasting disease, caused her decapitation, the prison physician, Dr. A. L. Love, said.

Witnesses were aghast at the sight which the Rev. Huffman, prison chaplain, pointed out to them. Five witnesses, two of them women, fainted.

Altogether there were five women in the chamber at the time of the execution. It was the first time in the history of Arizona that an execution was witnessed by women.

In the room where she died for the murder in 1927 of A. J. Mathis, a Tucson rancher, were the pictures of 16 persons—all men—who were hanged on the same gallows.

Around the picture was the noose which caused death, and tomorrow Mrs. Dugan's picture and her noose will be placed among the grim collection. Mrs. Dugan maintained her innocence to the very last.

Just a few minutes before she started the walk to the gallows she admitted reporters to the death cell.

"Shoot your questions, boys, there isn't much time left," she said. Then she added: "I'm not guilty, that's about all I have to say."

She kissed one reporter and then the interview was at an end after she collected one dollar from each to aid in the purchase of a "better coffin."

To the last moment, Mrs. Dugan, once known as "Eva Davis," in her dance hall days at Juneau, Alaska, was calm.

She played cards until almost midnight with two women from Tucson and then she prepared her last meal.

Refusing offers of aid from prison officials she cooked an oyster stew over the heater in her cell. A glass of orange juice was the only other thing she took.

BLOODHOUNDS, POSSES, RADIO SEEKING MUNN

AUTHORITIES OF 2 STATES ENDEAVORING TO FIND MAN WANTED FOR MURDER

BELIEVED INVOLVED IN SLAYING ALBERT DRAKE, 14, ON FARM NEAR DEXTER

Dexter, Minn., Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Reporting to bloodhounds, vigilante posses and the radio, authorities of two states today sought Edward Munn, 29, in connection with the murder of Albert Drake, 14, a brother of the farm hand's former sweetheart.

Munn was believed to have escaped into Iowa after posses searched southern Minnesota woods with bloodhounds yesterday to no avail. Iowa authorities at Osceola and Waterloo said the itinerant farm hand eluded them and evidently directed his escape toward Kansas City.

Rika Drake, 18, sister of the slain boy, was reported in a critical condition in a Rochester hospital. Mrs. Drake was slightly wounded by the same assailant who shot her son and daughter.

She said Munn came to the Drake farm home near here early Wednesday evening and began an argument with Albert at the barn. When Mrs. Drake and Rika appeared at the scene, they said, Munn shot the boy and then turned the gun on them and escaped. Rika seriously weakened her condition when she crawled on her hands and knees a quarter mile to a neighbor's home and spread the alarm.

Munn was a jilted suitor of Catherine Drake, the oldest daughter of the family. The girl, who objected to his attentions, was at Austin with her father, Charles Drake, at the time of the shooting.

Munn was believed to have eluded authorities at Osceola and Waterloo, where he jumped from the train, supposedly stole an automobile and left toward Kansas City. His description was broadcast by radio stations in Des Moines, Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

M. after having passed last greetings with her friends.

Mrs. Dugan, apparently unaffected, walked without help the 150 yards to the death cell. Once there she posed, dressed only in her nightgown and slippers, for photographers.

At odd times she recited poetry as she had for the past few days. Once she said:

"We came into this world naked and bare. Where we go from here God only knows."

A last minute rumor that Mrs. Dugan intended to take poison to cheat the gallows sent guards to search her cell.

"I won't cheat," she told them. "I'll go to the gallows like a man."

Warden Lorenzo Wright appeared to be more upset by the hanging than Mrs. Dugan. The warden reported that he received a telephone call at 1 A. M. from Governor Phillips. Under the Arizona law, Governor Phillips is not permitted to give executive clemency had he so desired.

The middle aged woman was arrested in New York state a short time after the rancher disappeared in January, 1927.

She was returned to Arizona and sentenced to the penitentiary after she was convicted of stealing Mathis' automobile. After Mrs. Dugan had been in prison for eleven months a man working near the Mathis ranch investigated a slight cave-in and found the body of the rancher.

Mrs. Dugan was brought to trial for his murder and, when she was convicted, was sentenced to death. She denied she killed Mathis, who was beaten to death, and blamed a mysterious youth named "Jack," whom she said, came to the ranch just a few days before the slaying. The state said "Jack" was an invention of Mrs. Dugan's mind.

When William Edward Hickman was convicted in Los Angeles of the kidnapping and murder of Marion Parker, Mrs. Dugan claimed he was "Jack." State authorities broke down the claim, however.

Mrs. Dugan was mother of a son and daughter but she steadfastly refused to tell of the son's whereabouts.

She said, however, that she received a telegram from her daughter, Cecelia Lovelace, from New York yesterday.

"My daughter says she is sorry for every cross thing she said to me," Mrs. Dugan said proudly.

Mrs. Dugan's father, William McDaniels, of Ceres, California, forwarded $50 of his savings as a contribution to her funeral expenses.

None of the family visited Mrs. Dugan after she was placed in jail here.

VALUABLE LIQUOR LADEN BOAT ADRIFT IN GULF STREAM

New York, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—A boat laden with $25,000 in fine liquors is drifting in the Gulf stream off Cape Hatteras, the potential property of the first person to find it. Captain John Sieversson of the abandoned vessel, who arrived today on the liner H. K. Mallory, told how the boat with a cargo "worth its weight in gold" came to be adrift.

Sieversson said he had been commissioned by John Murray and Co. to take a boat load of champagne and whiskey from Nassau to another island in the Bahamas. His crew consisted of two negroes.

The engine stalled. The ship drifted north. The negroes became panic stricken and transferred to the first boat that spoke to them. But Sieversson tried to carry on alone. The Mallory picked him up yesterday.

"It's an awful thing to lose a cargo like that," Sieversson said. "I've never seen a better assortment of liquor."

BIG BUSINESS FIGHTING GANGS IN CHICAGO

ZERO HOUR APPROACHES IN MULTI-MILLION DOLLAR WARFARE

MACHINERY READY TO EXTERMINATE RACKETEER, BOMBER, EXTORTIONIST, GUNMAN

Chicago, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Big business' multi-million-dollar war against gangland was at the zero hour today.

With the reading of a report before the executive committee of the Association of Commerce today, outlining plans of Robert Isham Randolph and his secret council of six business leaders, the machinery to exterminate the racketeer, the bomber, the extortionist and gunman was scheduled to whirl into action.

The campaign to end the annual $145,000,000 toll Chicago has paid to the gangs for the privilege of doing business will be pushed with as many millions as are needed, it was indicated, and will involve a highly efficient espionage and detective service.

"If the sum needed be $1,000,000, or $2,000,000,000 or $5,000,000, Chicago business men will furnish it," Randolph said before he went to the conference that he said would signalize the opening of the offensive.

"It will be a thorough and orderly campaign," the generalissimo of the citizens' law and order forces declared. "It will be in direct co-operation with the legally constituted authorities, the police, state's attorney and the federal government."

The Hon. Richard, it was revealed, had given Lord Westbury the Egyptian art works which were in his flat on St. James street where the peer was killed.

EVIDENCE GIVEN MAY BE USED FOR INDICTMENT

WITNESSES TESTIFY AS TO THE PLAN TO RAISE FUND TO CHANGE STATE LAWS

SOUGHT TO LEGALIZE THE SALE OF FUR FARM STOCK

Minneapolis, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The Hennepin county grand jury has been given evidence which may be used as the basis for an indictment against a former state official, it was reported today.

Members of the jury were said to have revealed that several witnesses have testified concerning a plan to raise a fund of $15,000 to change the state laws and legalize the sale of fur farm stock. A state legislator was said to have been involved in the plan. Two witnesses were reported to have testified the legislator was to take charge of the fund and use it to his own discretion in a campaign for the desired legislation.

Another report was that a witness told the jury two former state officials offered to bribe employees of the state securities commission into allowing the Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farms Corporation to violate state laws in the sale of unit contract shares.

The United States district attorney's office and the grand jury are reported seeking evidence of fraud against officials of the company.

FABLED "CURSE OF PHAROHS"

RECALLED WHEN LORD WESTBURY PLUNGES 7 STORIES TO HIS DEATH

London, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The fabled "curse of the Pharaohs" was recalled today when Lord Westbury, grandson of Queen Victoria's noted lord chancellor, plunged seven stories to his death from a flat in which were several Egyptian art works laboriously dug from the Valley of Kings.

The death of the 77-year-old peer, which was declared to be "suicide while of unsound mind," followed less than three months after the discovery of the body of his only son, the Hon. Richard Westbury, 46, in his room at a club. The son, who apparently died in his bed, has been secretary to Howard Carter, who excavated the tomb of Tut Ankh-Amen.

It was said at the time of the excavations that there was a superstition that the Pharaohs would have vengeance on any persons who molested their tombs, the ill luck to extend to the families of persons involved.

The Hon. Richard, it was revealed, had given Lord Westbury the Egyptian art works which were in his flat on St. James street where the peer was killed.

PENSIONS FOR DEPENDENTS OVER 65 YEARS OLD

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Considerable interest was evinced today in the hearings before the house labor committee on bills providing pensions for dependents over 65 years of age.

It was the first time a public hearing before a congressional committee had been held on this project, which has been adopted by nearly every European government.

The bills under discussion would provide aid for nearly 2,000,000 Americans, according to information brought out at the opening of the hearings.

BIGGEST AND MOST WELCOME PAYDAY NOTED

CHICAGO CITY, COUNTY AND SCHOOL EMPLOYEES AWAIT PAYMENT OF SALARIES

EMERGENCY LOAN DRIVE FOR $50,000,000 IS NEARING SUCCESS

Chicago, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The biggest and most welcome payday in their lives is just around the corner for the 43,836 city, county and school employees of Chicago.

So hopeful were bankers and leaders in the city's financial relief program today that they raised the goal in the emergency loan drive from $50,000,000, the amount already assured by big business, to the $74,000,000 listed by the local governing bodies as their need between now and July 1.

Banks announced they would contribute $25,000,000 if an aggregate of $74,000,000 is raised, or one-third of any sum over $50,000,000.

Pay checks for the more than 40,000 workers, many of whom have not received a cent of salary money since before Christmas, probably will start going out Tuesday, those in charge of the relief campaign announced.

Although 18,000 city employees received pay for two weeks of the long period, the amount was only a temporary help as it was needed for bills that had been piling up.

J. J. FUHR, JOURNALIST, DIES IN WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—J. J. Fuhr, 55, president of the Norwegian-Danish Press association, died in General hospital last night from hemorrhage of the brain.

Fuhr owned a group of Scandinavian weekly newspapers in the United States and had made his home at Duluth, Minn., for 30 years. He was stricken while in Winnipeg on business.

Minneapolis, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Carl Krienke, 70, Minneapolis, was killed when struck by a Great Northern passenger train at the Cedar avenue bridge today.

MAY TRANSLATE ITSELF INTO ACTION SOON

GROUP IN JUDICIARY COMMITTEE, WETS AND DRYS, CONVINCED CHANGE NEEDED

HAVE STUDIED WICKERSHAM'S LAW ENFORCEMENT BODY'S PROHIBITION PROGRAM

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 21.—Growing sentiment in the house for modification of the Jones law, fixing the maximum penalty for prohibition violations at five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine, may translate itself into action at this session of congress despite the legislation jam in the senate.

A group in the house judiciary committee, composed of both wets and drys, has been convinced by study of the Wickersham law enforcement commission's prohibition program that a complete revamping of the Jones law is necessary if federal courts are to be relieved of the congestion resulting from liquor trials.

This group is determined to pass modifying legislation at this session of congress regardless of the recent statements by house leaders that delay of the tariff bill in the senate may force the house to abandon all measures not already enacted.

"The Jones law changes, under consideration by a judiciary subcommittee, would define 'casual and slight' prohibition violations, which by the act passed last year are exempt from the drastic punishment but not specifically named. This would prevent district attorneys from threatening prosecution under the Jones law of an offender whose crime has not been of a serious nature."

"Obviously, the purpose of the Jones law is to get the big fellows, not the small fry," Chairman Christopherson of the subcommittee, told the United Press. "I think wets and drys alike will agree this should be stated in the law itself."

"Once the judiciary committee reports a measure, I believe one day of debate will be sufficient to get it through the house. I don't expect much opposition from either wets or drys."

REVEAL PLANS TO OPERATE MUSCLE SHOALS PROJECT

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Details of a plan to send an agent through the south to enlist sentiment for the American Cyanamid company's bid for operation of Muscle Shoals were revealed before the senate lobby committee today.

Under the plan, said to have been originated by J. W. Worthington of the Tennessee River Improvement association, the agent was to be paid by the Cyanamid company or the Union Carbide company, although representing the American Farm Bureau federation in opposing the Norris bill for government operation.

Girl of 15 Said She Had 266 Sailor Sweethearts

New London, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—She was just a sailor's sweetheart—266 sailors' sweetheart.

This proud boast was hurled at police who held a 15-year-old Cambridge, Mass., girl today.

A dog-eared notebook found in the girl's possession contained the names and stations or ships of 266 sailors and coast guardsmen.

"They are all my sweethearts," the girl told police.

She will be returned to her parents.

FEDERAL RADIO COMMISSION TO BE REAPPOINTED

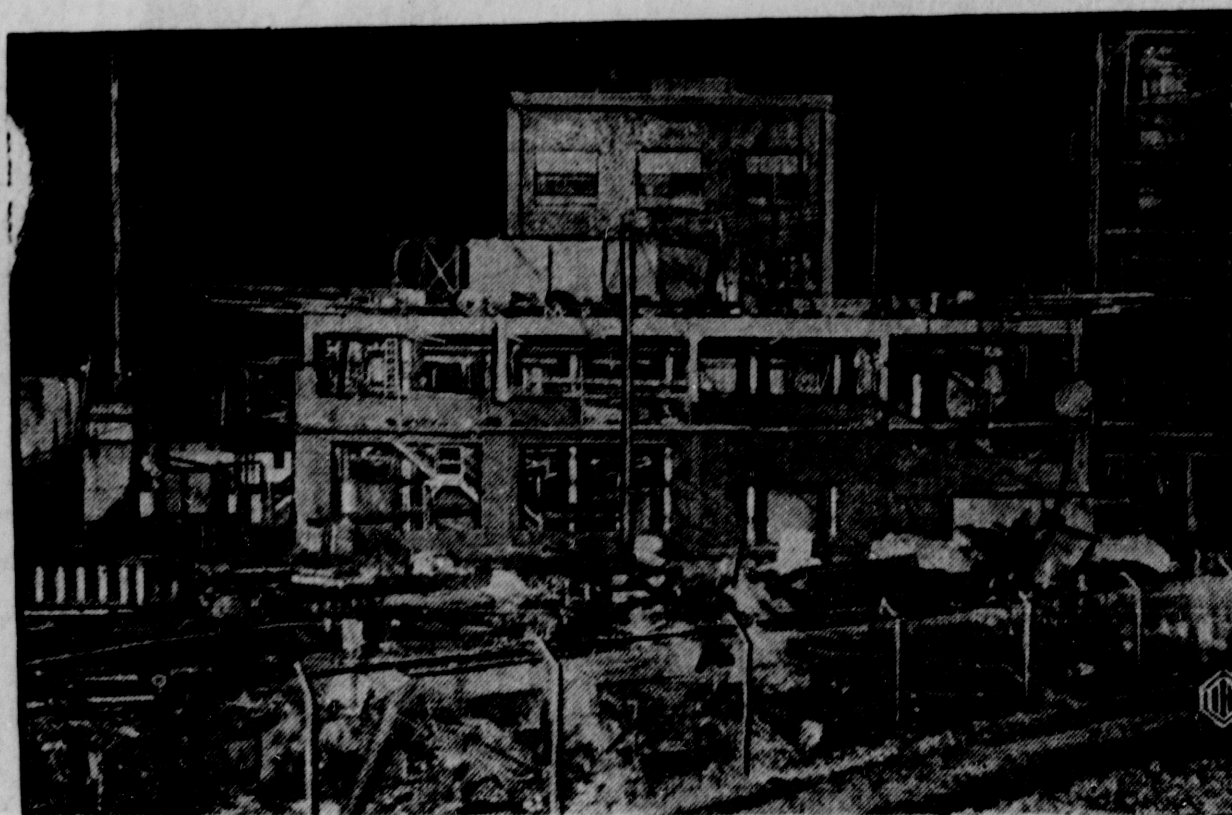

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The senate interstate commerce committee reported favorably today President Hoover's renomination of the five members of the federal radio commission. Chairman Couzens said the action was "almost unanimous."

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, is understood to have objected to the renomination of Commissioners Starbuck and Saltzman in the committee's executive session which preceded the vote.

GIRL OF 14 HAS INHERITED FORTUNE OF $4,000,000

Brooklyn, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Miss Eloise Staats, now 14, may one day control one of the largest fortunes in Brooklyn. She was the adopted daughter of the late Lyndner W. Lawrence, printer and stationer, who left her approximately $4,000,000 in his will.

Captain John Sieverson of the abandoned vessel, who arrived today on the liner H. R. Mallory, told how the boat with a cargo "worth its weight in gold" came to be adrift.

Sieverson said he had been commissioned by John Murray and Co. to take a boat load of champagne and whiskey from Nassau to another island in the Bahamas. His crew consisted of two negroes.

The engine stalled. The ship drifted north. The negroes became panic stricken and transferred to the first boat that spoke to them. But Sieverson tried to carry on alone. The Mallory picked him up yesterday.

"It's an awful thing to lose a cargo like that," Sieverson said. "I've never seen a better assortment of liquor."

BIG BUSINESS FIGHTING GANGS IN CHICAGO

ZERO HOUR APPROACHES IN MULTI-MILLION DOLLAR WARFARE

MACHINERY READY TO EXTERMINATE RACKETEER, BOMBER, EXTORTIONIST, GUNMAN

Chicago, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Big business' multi-million-dollar war against gangland was at the zero hour today.

With the reading of a report before the executive committee of the Association of Commerce today, outlining plans of Robert Isham Randolph and his secret council of six business leaders, the machinery to exterminate the racketeer, the bomber, the extortionist and gunman was scheduled to whirl into action.

The campaign to end the annual $145,000,000 toll Chicago has paid to the gangs for the privilege of doing business will be pushed with as many millions as are needed, it was indicated, and will involve a highly efficient espionage and detective service.

"If the sum needed be $1,000,000, or $2,000,000 or $5,000,000, Chicago business men will furnish it," Randolph said before he went to the conference that he said would signalize the opening of the offensive.

"It will be a thorough and orderly campaign," the generalissimo of the citizens' law and order forces declared. "It will be in direct co-operation with the legally constituted authorities, the police, state's attorney and the federal government."

EVIDENCE GIVEN MAY BE USED FOR INDICTMENT

WITNESSES TESTIFY AS TO THE PLAN TO RAISE FUND TO CHANGE STATE LAWS

SOUGHT TO LEGALIZE THE SALE OF FUR FARM STOCK

Minneapolis, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The Hennepin county grand jury has been given evidence which may be used as the basis for an indictment against a former state official, it was reported today.

Members of the jury were said to have revealed that several witnesses have testified concerning a plan to raise a fund of $15,000 to change the state laws and legalize the sale of fur farm stock. A state legislator was said to have been involved in the plan.

Two witnesses were reported to have testified the legislator was to take charge of the fund and use it to his own discretion in a campaign for the desired legislation.

Another report was that a witness told the jury two former state officials offered to bribe employees of the state securities commission into allowing the Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farms Corporation to violate state laws in the sale of unit contract shares.

The United States district attorney's office and the grand jury are reported seeking evidence of fraud against officials of the company.

FABLED "CURSE OF PHAROHS"

RECALLED WHEN LORD WESTBURY PLUNGES 7 STORIES TO HIS DEATH

London, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The fabled "curse of the Pharaohs" was recalled today when Lord Westbury, grandson of Queen Victoria's noted lord chancellor, plunged seven stories to his death from a flat in which were several Egyptian art works laboriously dug from the Valley of Kings.

The death of the 77-year-old peer, which was declared to be "suicide while of unsound mind," followed less than three months after the discovery of the body of his only son, the Hon. Richard Westbury, 46, in his room at a club. The son, who apparently died in his bed, has been secretary to Howard Carter, who excavated the tomb of Tut Ankh-Amen.

It was said at the time of the excavations that there was a superstition that the Pharaohs would have vengeance on any persons who molested their tombs, the ill luck to extend to the families of persons involved.

The Hon. Richard, it was revealed, had given Lord Westbury the Egyptian art works which were in his flat on St. James street where the peer was killed.

PENSIONS FOR DEPENDENTS OVER 65 YEARS OLD

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Considerable interest was evinced today in the hearings before the house labor committee on bills providing pensions for dependents over 65 years of age.

It was the first time a public hearing before a congressional committee had been held on this project, which has been adopted by nearly every European government.

The bills under discussion would provide aid for nearly 2,000,000 Americans, according to information brought out at the opening of the hearings.

BIGGEST AND MOST WELCOME PAYDAY NOTED

CHICAGO CITY, COUNTY AND SCHOOL EMPLOYEES AWAIT PAYMENT OF SALARIES

EMERGENCY LOAN DRIVE FOR $50,000,000 IS NEARING SUCCESS

Chicago, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The biggest and most welcome payday in their lives is just around the corner for the 43,836 city, county and school employees of Chicago.

So hopeful were bankers and leaders in the city's financial relief program today that they raised the goal in the emergency loan drive from $50,000,000, the amount already assured by big business, to the $74,000,000 listed by the local governing bodies as their need between now and July 1.

Banks announced they would contribute $25,000,000 if an aggregate of $74,000,000 is raised, or one-third of any sum over $50,000,000.

Pay checks for the more than 40,000 workers, many of whom have not received a cent of salary money since before Christmas, probably will start going out Tuesday, those in charge of the relief campaign announced.

Although 18,000 city employees received pay for two weeks of the long period, the amount was only a temporary help as it was needed for bills that had been piling up.

J. J. FUHR, JOURNALIST, DIES IN WINNIPEG

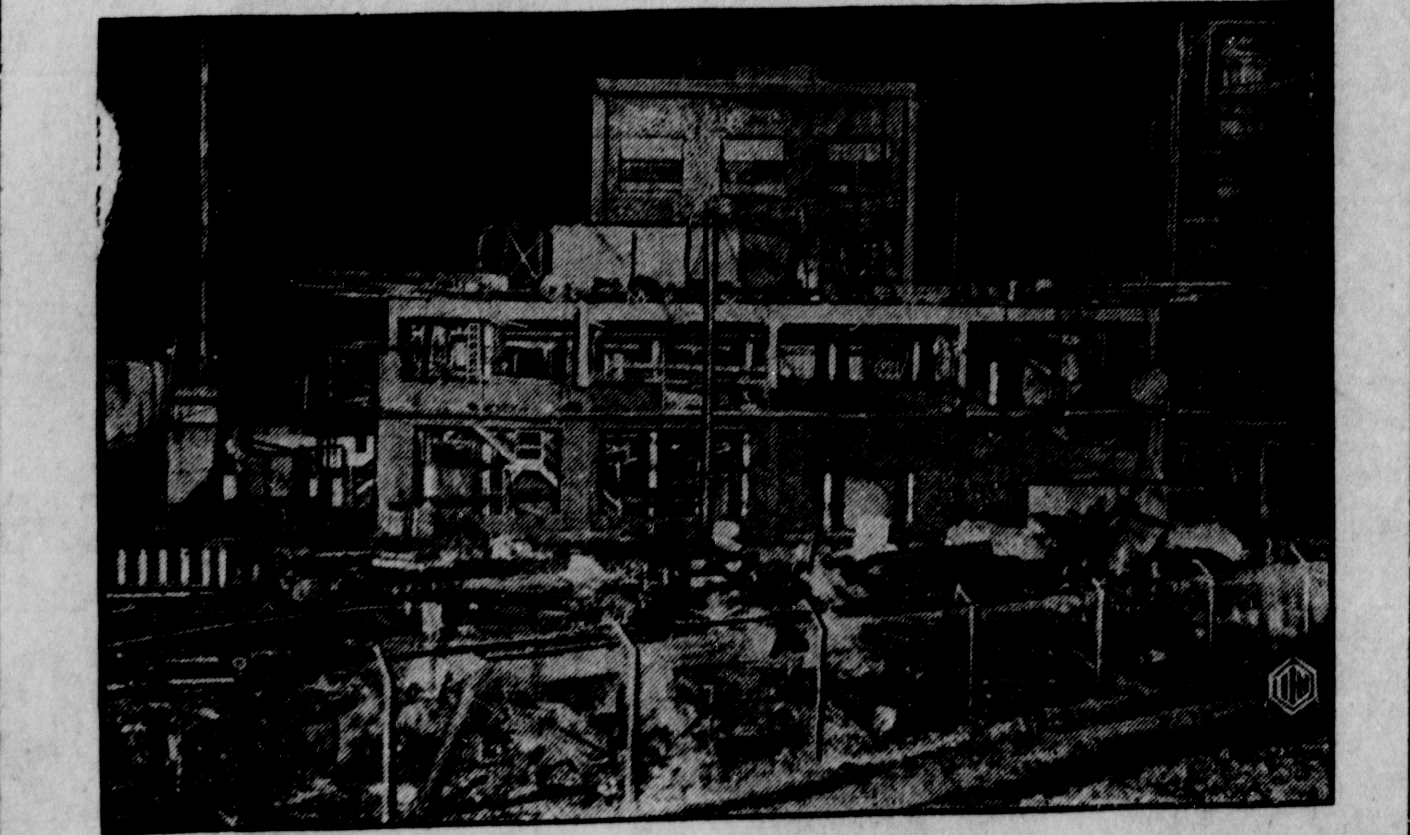

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—J. J. Fuhr, 55, president of the Norwegian Danish Press association, died in General hospital last night from hemorrhage of the brain.

Fuhr owned a group of Scandinavian weekly newspapers in the United States and had made his home at Duluth, Minn., for 30 years. He was stricken while in Winnipeg on business.

MAY TRANSLATE ITSELF INTO ACTION SOON

GROUP IN JUDICIARY COMMITTEE, WETS AND DRYS, CONVINCED CHANGE NEEDED

HAVE STUDIED WICKERSHAM'S LAW ENFORCEMENT BODY'S PROHIBITION PROGRAM

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Feb. 21.—Growing sentiment in the house for modification of the Jones law, fixing the maximum penalty for prohibition violations at five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine, may translate itself into action at this session of congress despite the legislation jam in the senate.

A group in the house judiciary committee, composed of both wets and drys, has been convinced by study of the Wickersham law enforcement commission's prohibition program that a complete revamping of the Jones law is necessary if federal courts are to be relieved of the congestion resulting from liquor trials.

This group is determined to pass modifying legislation at this session of congress regardless of the recent statements by house leaders that delay of the tariff bill in the senate may force the house to abandon all measures not already enacted.

The Jones law changes, under consideration by a judiciary sub-committee, would define "casual and slight" prohibition violations, which by the act passed last year are exempt from the drastic punishment but not specifically named. This would prevent district attorneys from threatening prosecution under the Jones law of an offender whose crime has not been of a serious nature.

"Obviously, the purpose of the Jones law is to get the big fellows, not the small fry," Chairman Christopher of the sub-committee, told the United Press. "I think wets and drys alike will agree this should be stated in the law itself."

"Once the judiciary committee reports a measure, I believe one day of debate will be sufficient to get it through the house. I don't expect much opposition from either wets or drys."

REVEAL PLANS TO OPERATE MUSCLE SHOALS PROJECT

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Details of a plan to send an agent through the south to enlist sentiment for the American Cyanamid company's bid for operation of Muscle Shoals were revealed before the senate lobby committee today.

Under the plan, said to have been originated by J. W. Worthington of the Tennessee River Improvement association, the agent was to be paid by the Cyanamid company or the Union Carbide company, although representing the American Farm Bureau federation in opposing the Norris bill for government operation.

Girl of 15 Said She Had 266 Sailor Sweethearts

New London, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—She was just a sailor's sweetheart—266 sailors' sweetheart.

This proud boast was hurled at police who held a 15-year-old Cambridge, Mass., girl today.

A dog-eared notebook found in the girl's possession contained the names and stations or ships of 266 sailors and coast guardsmen.

"They are all my sweethearts," the girl told police.

She will be returned to her parents.

FEDERAL RADIO COMMISSION TO BE REAPPOINTED

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—The senate interstate commerce committee reported favorably today President Hoover's renomination of the five members of the federal radio commission. Chairman Couzens said the action was "almost unanimous."

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, is understood to have objected to the renomination of Commissioners Starbuck and Saltzman in the committee's executive session which preceded the vote.

GIRL OF 14 HAS INHERITED FORTUNE OF $4,000,000

Brooklyn, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Miss Eloise Staats, now 14, may one day control one of the largest fortunes in Brooklyn. She was the adopted daughter of the late Lyndean W. Lawrence, printer and stockholder, who left her approximately $4,000,000 in his will.

Free Bulletins

The Department of Agriculture has recently issued a new list of bulletins that are available for free distribution. These bulletins treat on almost every subject of interest to the farmer and city dweller alike and may be procured by addressing Hon. Harold Knutson, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

Scholastic Honor System

The honor system as applied to schools is a phase of student government whereby the students pledge themselves to handle their own affairs and be responsible for good deportment without the constant attendance of a professor. This is particularly true at examination time, when the students promise not to cheat, even though a professor is not in the room.

LITTLE WORRY OF UNDULANT FEVER

Dr. C. A. Nelson Writes Article on
"Undulant Fever and Bang Abortion Disease"

"There has been a great deal of agitation throughout the country in regard to Undulant or Malta Fever caused by the drinking of milk. This has caused a considerable number of people to quit drinking milk. This disease is negligible and only comes where there is Bang Abortion in a herd and then very rarely," writes County Agent E. G. Roth, "Dr. C. A. Nelson of Brainerd has written an article which I am enclosing herewith on this subject. You are welcome to use it in your paper."

The article by Dr. Nelson veterinarian on "Undulant Fever and Bang Abortion Disease" follows:

This disease is caused by an organism in the blood of cattle, swine and most of our domestic animals and now supposedly including man.

The source of infection in cattle, is infected animals, aborted fetuses, the placental membranes and the excretions for aborting animals.

The mode of transmission of this infection to susceptible animals has never been definitely determined; but most investigators agree that the disease is generally transmitted by actual contact with the infected animals, or infectious material and that other modes of infection are negligible.

During recent years it has been learned that a disease occurs in humans, which is caused by the same or an identical organism, as the one which causes Bang Abortion disease in cattle.

This disease has been named Undulant Fever; but a similar or identical disease has been known for a long time as Malta Fever, the causative organism of which was demonstrated 40 years ago and named Micrococcus melitensis, whereas the organism causing Undulant Fever has been named the Bacillus Abortus Bang.

The source of infection of Malta Fever has always been ascribed to goats and humans contracted it by consuming goats milk. The goats harboring the causative organism were located on the shores of the Mediterranean and Red seas, Gibraltar, Sicily, Naples and on the Island of Malta, from which the name of the disease originated. Goats from these countries have been barred from entry into this country or quarantined until it was definitely determined that they were free from this infection before entry was allowed, consequently it has been assumed that this country was free from Malta Fever.

About 10 years ago investigators discovered a disease here, which seemed to be identical with Malta Fever, in persons which had never come in contact with goats in any way, so that infection from that source was entirely eliminated.

Further investigations disclosed that the organism causing what was then known as contagious abortion in cattle, was in all respects identical with the one causing Malta Fever and the newly discovered disease in man.

Those facts have since been confirmed by bacteriologists both here and in Europe. Up to the present time practically nothing is known about the transmission of this disease from one animal to another, except in the case of cattle, where it seemingly is transferred by actual contact, certainly nothing has been proven about the infection to man from animals. There are cases on record which can not even remotely be connected with cows or dairy products.

On account of its being in a manner of speaking, a new disease, it has recently received an exaggerated publicity in comparison with its importance as a disease in man. The only feature that it is new is the rediscovery and recognition of a disease which was thought to be unknown to this country.

has been with us since the dawn of civilization and before that, only we did not recognize and classify it.

Undulant fever according to investigations made, has a very low mortality.

Out of 89 cases investigated in Denmark not one terminated fatally, none occurred in children less than 13 years of age, 68 cases occurred in men and 21 in women. It has never been an epidemic; but occurs seemingly sporadically in isolated cases one in a family, over the whole country, 34 out of these 89 cases could be traced to direct contact with infected cattle, 39 had consumed milk and cream from infected herds and 16 cases could not be ascribed to any contact with infected cattle or consumption of dairy products.

Thus in Denmark, from carefully obtained data, it appears, that while there was some circumstantial evidence incriminating infected cattle and dairy products, it was by no means proven in any case and in 16 cases circumstantial evidence was entirely excluded.

A great deal of careful investigation has been made in this country, in recent years and about parallel results with above quoted, have generally been obtained.

Investigators in this county have also demonstrated that this organism causing Undulant Fever in man and Bang Abortion disease in cattle, is also present in the blood of swine and that this type seemingly causes a more severe form of the disease in man, than the bovine (cattle) type.

Out of 46 cases that were investigated in Iowa, 14 were of bovine (cattle) type and 32 were of porcine (swine) type. Most of these cases were in men 30 to 40 years of age.

This does not necessarily mean that 14 cases were contracted from cattle and 32 cases were contracted from swine. It simply means that bacteriologists have observed some slight differences in the behavior of the organism, which makes it possible to classify the bacterium into different types, corresponding to those obtained from the several species of animals mentioned, the same as is done in the case of tuberculosis. Another peculiarity noted is that this organism seems to have the ability to penetrate unbroken skin.

No class of humans seem to be especially susceptible and no class seems to have any special immunity to this infection, as far as investigations up to this time indicate.

No special cause for alarm is apparent. There is no special precautions indicated which apply to the consumption of pork and dairy products, except that on general principles, pork should be well cooked before it is used for food and pasteurized milk is safer than raw milk.

There is no direct evidence that any of these food products will produce Undulant Fever. The fact is that we have everything to learn about the mode of infection in man.

Until very recently we did not know that this disease was present in this country and in comparison with influenza, typhoid, cancer and heart disease it is very mild in effect as well as rare in occurrence.

In cattle this organism presents a much more serious problem. It is very wide spread it causes larger economic losses than any other disease.

Aside from the possibility of it being a menace to human health, there is every reason for attempting to eradicate this disease.

Until recently no means of eradication or control were available. Manifestation of Bang Abortion disease in cattle are immature births, frequently accompanied by complications, serious to the life of the mother animal.

In most cases that have a favorable termination, there are great losses in production, quite generally followed by other disease and diseases of the calves that are born alive. About all that the veterinarians could offer consisted of advise about the care and treatment of the affected animal, with isolation, disinfection and disposal of the infectious material.

Fortunately a practical test has been perfected, whereby the extent of infection may be definitely determined, enabling the owner to isolate the infected animals from the healthy.

For well known reasons, this test in common with other biological tests is not claimed to be infallible at all times, there are some limitations but by repeating the test at certain intervals it is entirely feasible to build up a clean herd by elimination of all infected animals.

As stated before the mode of infection in cattle is believed to be all together by actual contact so that if this is prevented, infected cattle may be kept in close proximity to non-infected, with a very little danger of spreading the disease as long as actual contact is prevented.

In other words, working knowledge for the eradication of Bang Abortion disease in cattle is now available.

It has been learned, that animals may have the infection, for some time before any signs of the disease are manifested, therefore it is advisable to test apparently healthy herds, once a year, in order to eliminate the disease before it is spread to too many animals.

AWARD MERIT BADGES

Troop No. 43 Captures Honor Pennant, Troop No. 44 Wins Second

One of the most impressive Courts of Honor ever held in Brainerd was given Wednesday evening at the high school gymnasium when over a hundred Boy Scouts appeared in uniform in their different troops.

Troop No. 43 of Northeast Brainerd captured all the various special awards, the Court of Honor pennant, the window display award and the special award for stunts. The stunt given by this troop was a semaphoring stunt. The leader blew a whistle and a boy on the opposite side of the room semaphored letters which were formed by a group of boys on the floor. This stunt was accomplished in two minutes and 20 seconds. Arden Miller was the leader while Harold Strickler semaphored.

Second prize was awarded to Troop No. 44 which did acrobatic stunts, among them being a pyramid by the boys standing on each others' shoulders.

Troop No. 47 received third prize. In this troop each boy had a tied knot which he described, giving the uses for each.

Next came the candle ceremony celebrating the twentieth anniversary of Boy Scouts in this country. This ceremony was very impressive and was performed by 15 boys of all the different troops of Brainerd. Twelve boys formed a triangle and gave the Scout law. There were three boys in the center of the triangle who gave the Scout oath. Each boy held a candle, and as the candle was lit he gave his part of the Scout oath and law.

About 50 boys received tenderfoot, second class, first class, merit, star, Scout, achievement scouting badges and bronze palms. Sherman Mayo of Troop No. 43 received the achievement Scout badge and special recognition from the chief Scout executive of the nation who himself is an achievement Scout because of his physical disability. He also received ten merit badges. Eagle Scouts William Stout of Troop No. 45 and Harold Strickler and Arden Miller of Troop No. 43 received the bronze palms which indicates five merit badges beyond the Eagle Scout rank.

Over a hundred Camp Fire Girls, dressed in their uniforms and with their leaders, were present and in honor of the Boy Scouts sang a song specially dedicated to them, "Here's to You, Boy Scouts," followed by a cheer given by the girls.

In charge of the Court of Honor were Dr. A. K. Cohen, chairman; J. P. Anderson, R. R. Gould and R. E. Wyatt, assisted by District President S. R. Adair, District Scout Commissioner Lawrence Ericson, chairman of the civic service committee R. T. Campbell, chairman of camp, Louis Knudsen, chairman of leadership training, Rev. N. P. Olmsted, chairman of reading, Rev. F. A. Kufus and Field Scout Executive Joseph Schmitt. These all assisted in giving out of the honor award.

The speaker of the evening was R. R. Gould on the subject: "Six Points of Character." These, he said, were faith, integrity, judgment, stamina, health and love.

There was a large number in attendance, it being estimated at over 700.

superior performance

Though it is known mainly for its superior performance and smoothness, the New Oakland Eight is also exceptionally economical. Unusually accessible parts make its maintenance cost low. Its sound basic design assures long service. And its gasoline mileage equals that of many sizes of similar size and weight. Its power plant provides ample space for large, long-lived bearings. Its short, rigid crankshaft eliminates torsional vibration and bending, two enemies of long life. Generous water passages around cylinders and valves protect against overheating, and a water recirculation system insures uniform cooling. Complete down-draft carburetion and manifold promote more economical use of fuel. A new-type cylinder head insures uniform combustion. Positive lubrication under 25 to 30 lbs. pressure supplies a constant flow of oil to moving parts. And crankcase ventilation prevents dilution of engine oil. Furthermore, Oakland's wood-and-steel Fisher bodies resist wear, being well constructed of materials chosen for hard service and long life. These features keep operating and maintenance costs low, and protect the car's ultimate resale value. In view of its many advantages, the New Oakland is very moderately priced. Why not come in and drive this newest General Motors eight whose superior performance is made all the more attractive by its exceptional economy?

Troop No. 45 and Harold Strickler and Arden Miller of Troop No. 43 received the bronze palms which indicates five merit badges beyond the Eagle Scout rank.

Over a hundred Camp Fire Girls, dressed in their uniforms and with their leaders, were present and in honor of the Boy Scouts sang a song specially dedicated to them, "Here's to You, Boy Scouts," followed by a cheer given by the girls.

In charge of the Court of Honor were Dr. A. K. Cohen, chairman; J. P. Anderson, R. R. Gould and R. E. Wyett, assisted by District President S. R. Adair, District Scout Commissioner Lawrence Ericson, chairman of the civic service committee R. T. Campbell, chairman of camp, Louis Knudsen, chairman of leadership training Rev. N. P. Olmsted, chairman of reading, Rev. F. A. Kufus and Field Scout Executive Joseph Schmitt. These all assisted in giving out of the honor award.

The speaker of the evening was R. R. Gould on the subject: "Six Points of Character." These, he said, were faith, integrity, judgment, stamina, health and love.

There was a large number in attendance, it being estimated at over 700.

Unusual features of design assure EXCEPTIONAL ECONOMY

Though it is known mainly for its superior performance and smoothness, the New Oakland Eight is also exceptionally economical. Unusually accessible parts make its maintenance cost low. Its sound basic design assures long service. And its gasoline mileage equals that of many sizes of similar size and weight. Its power plant provides ample space for large, long-lived bearings. Its short, rigid crankshaft eliminates torsional vibration and bending, two enemies of long life. Generous water passages around cylinders and valves protect against overheating, and a water recirculation system insures uniform cooling. Complete down-draft carburetion and manifolding promote more economical use of fuel. A new-type cylinder head insures uniform combustion. Positive lubrication under 25 to 30 lbs. pressure supplies a constant flow of oil to moving parts. And crankcase ventilation prevents dilution of engine oil. Furthermore, Oakland's wood-and-steel Fisher bodies resist wear, being well constructed of materials chosen for hard service and long life. These features keep operating and maintenance costs low, and protect the car's ultimate resale value. In view of its many advantages, the New Oakland is very moderately priced. Why not come in and drive this newest General Motors eight whose superior performance is made all the more attractive by its exceptional economy?

The New Oakland Eight, $1045 and up, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Levejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values. . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

The Forgotten Man

GOVERNOR GARDNER of North Carolina has already distinguished himself by his championship of the rights of the factory workers of his state, says the New York World. He is now giving his attention to the needs of another group which is in even worse economic plight, but which rarely gets much notice. The governor is trying to do something to improve the condition of the tenant farmers. For a number of years, on account of poor crops and low prices, their lot has been growing steadily harder. Perhaps the majority of them are deep in debt to local merchants and land-owners, who in turn are also heavily involved with their banks.

Similar conditions are to be found in most of the southern states. The tenant farmer is the forgotten man. We read much of the long hours of labor and the low wages paid to workers in southern cotton mills, but compared with the tenant cropper the mill worker lives in a bed of clover. Like the factory hand, the cropper supplies nothing but his labor, but he is also forced to assume most of the risks. The landlord furnishes him with farm, cabin, work animals and equipment and advances him food and other necessities on credit while the crop is being made. Half the crop goes to the landlord. If the yield for any reason is poor, the tenant cannot pay for what has been advanced to him and must start off the next year in debt. If there are several bad years in succession his plight becomes desperate.

It is to the improvement of this condition that Governor Gardner has addressed himself. He is urging the tenant farmers as a first step to undertake to raise as much of their own food-stuffs as they can. The governor's campaign calls to mind the "hog and hominy" slogan of the early '90s, when cotton dropped to five cents a pound. Other governors might well follow his example.

Problem in Horticulture

SEED catalogs are being avidly studied these days, for what with spring just around the corner, the making of garden plots will soon be under way.

A Brainerd philosopher has often wondered why some of these expert horticulturists do not graft common weeds with regular garden truck. Every gardener does his best to discourage the growth of weeds, but it is only accomplished by means of back-breaking toil. Every one knows the dour labor required to weed an onion patch, or hoe the potato plot.

Now if the luxuriant and generous urge of the common weed, which just seeks in its exuberant way to deck the whole landscape with its tendrils and leaves and extension roots were grafted on the lowly onion, the subterranean potato, the top heavy cabbage, the red cheeked tomato, the blushing beet, just imagine the increase in production.

Burbank who took the spine out of the cactus is gone, but his association is continued and is experimenting as usual. The project is worthy their consideration.

The Real Issue in Chicago

THE real issue in Chicago is this:

Has city government broken down? Is the second largest city in the United States unable to govern itself? Does it require a city manager or some other plan to succeed the present method? During the long and other warfare Chicago appealed to the federal government for aid.

During its financial troubles, sentiment has shaped to call on the legislature to enable the city to crawl from the money trouble morass to higher ground.

And during all this turmoil, one Big Bill Thompson, the mayor, who sought to regulate things outside his bailiwick, has little or nothing to say.

The assertion has been made that Chicago has lived beyond its means for years, and the day of reckoning is at hand. Mortgaging the future to pay expenses of the present only defers the settlement.

Whole State Interested

IN the various arguments with and among students and student bodies, as occurring at the University of Minnesota, the students should realize that the discussions have attracted state-wide interest.

The reason for this is easily seen when one realizes that every taxpayer in Minnesota is interested in our state university. The university is not a St. Paul institution or a Minneapolis institution, but it belongs to the whole state and the sooner student bodies realize this, the better it will be for all concerned.

Arguments over the conduct of a university daily are studied carefully out in the so-called "sticks" of Minnesota and have a wider significance than those immediately concerned realize.

Advice on Exercising

ADVICE to the middle aged in regard to proper exercise seems to vary a great deal. Some advocate violent exercise or long sustained efforts. Some advocate walking, others the daily dozen, some say golf and others something else.

If you are past 50, the best thing is to see the old reliable, your family physician and have him prescribe the course best suited to your condition.

Boys of 50 are no spring chickens and can do themselves harm if they change from sedentary life to violent exercise.

THE burst of warm weather which has filtered south from Canada and bathed the United States in sunshine, evidently affected the Antarctic regions and permitted Byrd's supply ship to break through the ice barrier.

THE grip germ has been segregated, but we doubt if any scientist has lassoed the germ of a common cold. More time and money are lost putting up with common colds than any other illness.

AN indication of spring more certain than crows, horned caterpillars, butterflies, pussywillows, robins, etc., is the fact that marble playing got under way yesterday as one of the outdoor sports.

Florida Conferences May Decide Senate Run

William S. Vare, Pennsylvania Republican leader, has been conferring with prominent party members at St. Lucie, Fla. So far as could be learned Mr. Vare has given no intimation as to whether he will reconsider his decision to run again for Senator. Neither has there been any word regarding his choice for Governor of Pennsylvania.

"MASTER of MONEY"
BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

ALAN BRENNAWAY, 35, has made a fortune. He asks Shirley Dane, beautiful, young, society girl to marry him. She refuses, being secretly engaged to Roger Kelton, young lawyer, in whose care she has placed her inheritance. Unknown to Shirley, Alan lends Roger half a million dollars to save him from bankruptcy, after he learns that Roger is the man Shirley loves. Alan takes as collateral worthless shares in a Macedonia development which Roger agrees to investigate. After Roger and Shirley are married, Roger tells her Alan is a client of his and, therefore, he cannot refuse to go to Macedonia.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XIII.
"YES—a thousand," he repeated uneasily. "I must say I think that that wallpaper isn't at all bad as it stands."

"It's a very good wallpaper," agreed Shirley. "But wallpaper tells everybody who comes here that we can't afford paneling. And that would cost us a great deal more than a thousand dollars."

"This policy of yours, you know—my father had it to a point and I'm not altogether sure that he made a success of it."

"He hadn't the need to study it properly," Shirley pointed out. "My father had to do it well. We had only the fifteen thousand I've got now and we went everywhere—everywhere. Don't you remember what you said about Southampton costing a lot? It didn't cost us 500 dollars, and how much did you make over taking Gorston's advice?"

"Nearly fifteen hundred in nine days," he answered proudly. "Cynaz appointed you to three companies," she went on. "If we hadn't spent that money on Long Island none of that would have happened. So what about leaving the domestic arrangements in my hands, Roger?"

He looked at her, doubt in his eyes. She saw the doubt dissolve and give place to consciousness of her morning-gown. Keeping his eyes upon her, he flung his cigarette into the grate.

"Have it your own way, sweetheart," he exclaimed. He strode towards her. His hand played over the lace at her throat. "I suppose I'm a sort of idiot sometimes, but I've only to talk to you and I'm ready to tilt at mountains. Give me a kiss before I go to the office—no, no, no, don't run away—you shall, you darling, you shall."

She had been kissed. He had left her in the utmost good humor, not knowing that she had not wanted to be kissed. Now she came to think of it he never noticed whether she wanted to be kissed. Perhaps it made no difference to him. Perhaps husbands were like that—unless one married a man like Alan, who, of course, would be quite impossible in every other way.

She turned to a mirror and looked at the morning gown that had diverted Roger from his doubt of her policy. It was of soft thick silk, the color of honey, opaque and sinuous. Lace was used lavishly on it—old lace, a genuine point de Flandres that was yellow with time. Shirley couldn't quite remember what the price of the gown was going to be; the bill had not yet been presented.

There were many other bills that had not yet been presented. In her mind, Shirley wandered over her house, inspecting, approving. Color and light had been added everywhere; luxury had been suggested only elusively—an elaborately lighted picture, here, a brocade-arch hung there. Everywhere there was that perfection of choice that cries aloud of wealth.

Shirley, shrugging a little, did not for a moment doubt her policy. For one thing, it was so familiar to her; her father had reared her on it. For another, it had, even in these few short weeks, proved it.

"I've been shopping and I want my tea. Good! Here it is."

"Go on being tired and let me pour out," he invited.

She watched him pour out the tea and was surprised at his deftness. She had always thought of him as fumbling at small things. "How can you know I don't take sugar?" she asked as he handed her the cup.

It was on the tip of his tongue to tell her that he remembered every incident of the tea they had had together over seven years ago, but he made no answer.

"And now tell me all about everything," he said as she leaned back with a sigh of contentment. She read his thought and laughed.

"You don't really want to hear about all the hotels, the scenery of Norway, the fun at Southampton, do you? Own up."

"No," he laughed back. "Well, I think I'll tell you what you really want to know. On the whole I think I prefer being married to being single."

"Good!" he ejaculated. "I was really living in cotton-wool with Aunt Marion. But now I have to buckle up and think things out. I've spent three hours order. She lunched out and did some more shopping.

He left her in the utmost good humor, not knowing that she had not wanted to be kissed.

When she got home, Alan was waiting for her in the drawing-room.

Again Alan was conscious of changes in Shirley. It was as if further touches had been added to a still unfinished painting of her. Before either of them had spoken he knew that all restraint between them had vanished.

"You look as if you had been expecting me," he said.

"That's how I feel," she said spontaneously, and added: "I was not really expecting you, of course. But I've been thinking about you today. I want to have a good look at you. . . . You don't look ill."

"I'm not. I'm simply undergoing a rest-cure, which I've broken for no other reason than that I felt I must have a glimpse of you both. You, by the way, look tired."

The Forgotten Man

GOVERNOR GARDNER of North Carolina has already distinguished himself by his championship of the rights of the factory workers of his state, says the New York World. He is now giving his attention to the needs of another group which is in even worse economic plight, but which rarely gets much notice. The governor is trying to do something to improve the condition of the tenant farmers. For a number of years, on account of poor crops and low prices, their lot has been growing steadily harder. Perhaps the majority of them are deep in debt to local merchants and land-owners, who in turn are also heavily involved with their banks.

Similar conditions are to be found in most of the southern states. The tenant farmer is the forgotten man. We read much of the long hours of labor and the low wages paid to workers in southern cotton mills, but compared with the tenant cropper the mill worker lives in a bed of clover. Like the factory hand, the cropper supplies nothing but his labor, but he is also forced to assume most of the risks. The landlord furnishes him with farm, cabin, work animals and equipment and advances him food and other necessities on credit while the crop is being made. Half the crop goes to the landlord. If the yield for any reason is poor, the tenant cannot pay for what has been advanced to him and must start off the next year in debt. If there are several bad years in succession his plight becomes desperate.

It is to the improvement of this condition that Governor Gardner has addressed himself. He is urging the tenant farmers as a first step to undertake to raise as much of their own food-stuffs as they can. The governor's campaign calls to mind the "hog and hominy" slogan of the early '90s, when cotton dropped to five cents a pound. Other governors might well follow his example.

"MASTER of MONEY"

BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

ALAN BRENNAWAY, 35, has made a fortune. He asks Shirley Dane, beautiful, young, society girl to marry him. She refuses, being secretly engaged to Roger Kelton, young lawyer, in whose care she has placed her inheritance. Unknown to Shirley, Alan lends Roger half a million dollars to save him from bankruptcy, after he learns that Roger is the man Shirley loves. Alan takes as collateral worthless shares in a Macedonian development which Roger agrees to investigate. After Roger and Shirley are married, Roger tells her Alan is a client of his and, therefore, he cannot refuse to go to Macedonia.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER XIII.
"YES—a thousand," he repeated uneasily. "I must say I think that that wallpaper isn't at all bad as it stands."
"It's a very good wallpaper," agreed Shirley. "But wallpaper tells everybody who comes here that we can't afford paneling. And that would cost us a great deal more than a thousand dollars."
"This policy of yours, you know my father had it to a point and I'm not altogether sure that he made a success of it."
"He hadn't the need to study it properly," Shirley pointed out. "My father had to do it well. We had only the fifteen thousand I've got now and we went everywhere—everywhere. Don't you remember what you said about Southampton costing a lot? It didn't cost us 500 dollars, and how much did you make over taking Gorston's advice?"

"Nearly fifteen hundred in nine days," he answered proudly.
"Cynaz appointed you to three companies," she went on. "If we hadn't spent that money on Long Island none of that would have happened. So what about leaving the domestic arrangements in my hands, Roger?"
He looked at her, doubt in his eyes. She saw the doubt dissolve and give place to consciousness of her morning gown. Keeping his eyes upon her, he flung his cigarette into the grate.
"Have it your own way, sweetheart," he exclaimed. He strode towards her. His hand played over the laces at her throat. "I suppose I'm a sort of idiot sometimes, but I've only to talk to you and I'm ready to tilt at mountains. Give me a kiss before I go to the office—no, no, no, don't run away—you shall, you darling, you shall."

She had been kissed. He had left her in the utmost good humor, not knowing that she had not wanted to be kissed. Now she came to think of it he never noticed whether she wanted to be kissed. Perhaps it made no difference to him. Perhaps husbands were like that—unless one married a man like Alan, who, of course, would be quite impossible in every other way.

She turned to a mirror and looked at the morning gown that had diverted Roger from his doubt of her policy. It was of soft thick silk, the color of honey, opaque and amorous. Lace was used lavishly on it—old lace, a genuine point de Flandres that was yellow with time. Shirley couldn't quite remember what the price of the gown was going to be; the bill had not yet been presented.

There were many other bills that had not yet been presented. In her mind, Shirley wandered over her house, inspecting, approving. Color and light had been added everywhere; luxury had been suggested only elusively—an elaborately lighted picture here, a brocade arch hung there. Everywhere there was that perfection of choice that cries aloud of wealth.

Shirley, shrugging a little, did not for a moment doubt her policy. For one thing, it was so familiar to her; her father had reared her on it. For another, it had, even in these few short weeks, proved it order. She lunched out and did some more shopping.
When she got home, Alan was waiting for her in the drawing-room.
Again Alan was conscious of changes in Shirley. It was as if further touches had been added to a still unfinished painting of her. Before either of them had spoken he knew that all restraint between them had vanished.
"You look as if you had been expecting me," he said.
"That's how I feel," she said spontaneously, and added: "I was not really expecting you, of course. But I've been thinking about you today. I want to have a good look at you. You don't look ill."
"I'm not. I'm simply undergoing a rest-cure, which I've broken for no other reason than that I felt I must have a glimpse of you both. You, by the way, look tired."

"I've been shopping and I want my tea. Good! Here it is."
"Go on being tired and let me pour out," he invited.

She watched him pour out the tea and was surprised at his deftness. She had always thought of him as fumbling at small things. "How can you know I don't take sugar?" she asked as he handed her the cup.

It was on the tip of his tongue to tell her that he remembered every incident of the tea they had had together over seven years ago, but he made no answer.
"And now tell me all about everything," he said as she leaned back with a sigh of contentment.

She read his thought and laughed.
"You don't really want to hear about all the hotels, the scenery of Norway, the fun at Southampton, do you? Own up."

"No," he laughed back.
"Well, I think I'll tell you what you really want to know. On the whole I think I prefer being married to being single."

"Good!" he ejaculated.
"I was really living in cotton-wool with Aunt Marion. But now I have to buckle to and think things out. I've spent three hours

He left her in the utmost good humor, not knowing that she had not wanted to be kissed.

this morning talking to a stupid artist about the paneling for the dining-room. At Southampton I planned to get up to Pineliff certain particular people I wanted."

"Are you going to make a house-party of it, then?"

"Not until the fifteenth and we're going up on the first. Roger thinks I need a bit of rest, so we're going to have a quiet fortnight. Your chance to be sociable, brother Alan. I know there will be no dragging you there once the others turn up."

"Because I didn't behave myself nicely at the Westburys?"

"Because it isn't your game."

"But it is still yours, eh?"

"Need you ask? Look at this house—and we have only a little over four thousand a year between us! Of course it's still my game if only because already it has paid."

Florida Conferences
May Decide Senate Run

William S. Vare, Pennsylvania Republican leader, has been conferring with prominent party members at St. Lucie, Fla. So far as could be learned Mr. Vare has given no intimation as to whether he will reconsider his decision to run again for Senator. Neither has there been any word regarding his choice for Governor of Pennsylvania.

1800 SEATS AVAILABLE FOR B. H. S.-ST. CLOUD GAME

5 TIER BLEACHERS ON SIDELINES TO ACCOMMODATE FANS

OLD CHARLIE WHITE ESSAYING COMEBACK TONIGHT

WILL REMAIN IN PLACE UNTIL AFTER THE DISTRICT TOURNAMENT IN MARCH

TECH-HIGH COMING SATURDAY WITH STRONG THREAT TO ERASE EARLIER DEFEAT

In deference to business men of the city who wish to see the entire game Saturday night, the Tech High vs. Brainerd game will start at 8:15 P. M.

Five tier bleachers will be in place on the Washington high school gymnasium tomorrow evening to afford the best of seating accommodations for the large turn-out expected when St. Cloud Tech-High clashes with Coach Kasch's cohorts.

The bleachers will increase the seating capacity in the gymnasium to 1,800 and will remain in place, with additional ones, until after the district tournament here in March. The enlarged seating will accommodate 2,500 fans.

The bleachers for Saturday are to be placed on the north side of the playing floor and will not obstruct the view of spectators in the arena. For the tournament additional bleachers will be placed on the south side.

Saturday night's game will be a battle to the finish, it was predicted here since the Granite City boys will come primed to fight for victory and overcome the beating they took at the hands of Brainerd high earlier in the season.

Spectators will fill the bleachers first and will then fill the regular seats. The largest turn-out to any game in Brainerd is expected.

Coach Kasch will put into play his regulars at the start-off with Elmer Foster and Hautala, forwards; Guin, center; Foster and Clausen, guards, with Schuetz, Hoffbauer, Garvey and Marshall as substitutes.

The team will play one other game than that with St. Cloud before the sub-district tournament at Crosby. The last game will be with Wadena here one week from tonight.

All Time Record Broken in I. B. A. Doubles Event

St. Paul, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Leo Mueller and Jess Young of Minneapolis established a new world's record for major tournament competition with a score of 1,441 in the doubles event of the International Bowling association tourney here last night. The former record was 1,380 pins held by Clarence and Harry Thoma of Chicago.

MORE SNOW NEEDED BEFORE LEGION DOG DERBY CAN BE HELD

More snow will be needed before the Legion's annual dog derby can be held, sponsors of the event decided today in the face of the clear streets.

The event which was scheduled to take place tomorrow will be postponed to a later date to be announced in the Brainerd Dispatch.

MEETS PERLOCK, ONE OF FIGHTING TWINS AT CHICAGO

PERLOCK WAS SWINGING IN THE CRADLE WHEN WHITE WAS IN PRIME 20 YEARS AGO

DESPITE HIS AGE, IS AT LEAST 30 YEARS OLD, WHITE RULES 7 TO 5 FAVORITE

Chicago, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Old Charlie White tonight will begin his attempt to prove that "the guy who said 'they never come back' was all wrong."

For the first time since that night eight years ago when he hung up his gloves after knocking out Bobby Barrett, White will get inside the squared circle and attempt to prove that he still is good enough to cope with the best of the present day lightweights.

The opponent will be Henry Perlock, one of the fighting twins, who was swinging in his cradle when Charlie was a top-notch some twenty years ago. Despite his age (he's at least 39) White has been made a 7-5 favorite.

There seems to be a general belief that Charlie still is good enough to trouble the present lightweights. Certainly he will be fighting no such opponents as Leonard, Welsh, Willie Ritchie, Ritchie Mitchell and Johnny Dundee, his former antagonists.

Perlock is a rough, tough fellow who has youth, a fair amount of speed and nerve—a good combination to test out old Charlie in his first start.

NORTHERN STATES POWER LEADS IN LADIES' LEAGUE

MRS. A. HAGBERG ROLLS HIGHEST TOTAL OF THE EVENING, 391

COTTAGE GRILL TEAM JUST ONE GAME BEHIND THE LEADERS

The Northern States Power climbed to the lone peak of the Ladies' League by defeating Princess Kandy Kids all three games. Mrs. A. Hagberg rolled highest total of 391, making 148, 117 and 126. Avis Kelly rolled 378 for high total for the Northern States Power. Mrs. Hagberg and Elaine Hartley rolled high single game of 148.

Cottage Grill is just one game below the Northern States Power. They won two games from Service News which was weakened by the absence of a player. Service News won the first game by two pins margin. Lorraine Palmer was star bowler of the evening with 403. Her scores were 126, 131 and 146. D. Hanson was high for Service News with 395.

Must Keep 'Em Way Up!

By HARDIN BURNLEY

WHEN Jack Sharkey and Phil Scott square off next Thursday night for their scheduled fifteen-round bout at Miami, Fla., fandom will be a unit in hoping that no foul will mar the proceedings. Still vivid are memories of the English champion going down so swiftly... painfully grimacing refusal to continue when struck what ringside veterans considered a comparatively light foul by Otto Von Porat last December. Scott won on that second round mishap and he has the marvelous good fortune of getting into the Miami big show. But he will have to perform brilliantly against Sharkey to offset his impressions of that shabby technical victory over Von Porat. Nearly everyone who saw Phil grab that groveling win, collecting a big purse from a charity show for such an unsatisfactory exhibition of the humorously called "manly art," will hope that Sharkey gives Scott a thorough drubbing.

On the other hand, many recall home-town rival, Jimmy Maloney. He really wants to knock the British champ cold as a snappy appetizer for winning the world's championship by stopping Max Schmeling next June. But Jack's friends know he must keep his punches way up. Foxy Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden favorite, is Scott's American manager, he is given much credit for maneuvering Phil into the Miami money after that Von Porat faux pas, and—if the artful James should yell, "Foul!"—well, some of Sharkey's friends will be worried every time Jack shoots one below Phil's neck.

Which reminds some cynical fans that Teddy Baldock, English feather, won on a foul in London from Spider Pladner recently. The Spider lost when he walloped the miniature Scott on the throat.

So keep 'em way up, Jack. Phil may not feel 'em, but you can bet that the vigilant Jimmy Johnston will see 'em.

Among the Red-Hot Rookies

By HARDIN BURNLEY

GUS SUHR
PITTSBURGH'S NEW FIRST-BASEMAN.

GUS WAS AN AWFUL FLOP AS A 2ND SACKER BUT THE SWITCH TO FIRST BASE MADE HIM A STAR,

HE LED THE COAST LEAGUE IN HOMERS LAST YEAR BEATING OUT THE FAMED JOLLEY!

RIGHT on the heels of the Smead Jolley deal in which the Chicago White Sox are reputedly variously to have paid from $50,000 to $60,000 and a player or two, the San Francisco Seals sold their other super-star, Gus Suhr, to the Pittsburgh Pirates for what is reported broadly to be $75,000 with Earl Sheely thrown into the bargain for part of that sum.

The Seals' owners got none the worse of either deal, it would appear at this early writing, nor is it likely that the so-called parties of the second part will be stung either, for Jolley ought to add much to the White Sox field artillery and Suhr should do that very thing for the Pirates while covering first base.

Whether or not the Seals got such large prices for either Jolley or Suhr, it is known that they got two smart players in Frank Sigafoos and Sheely who hit but fairly in the big leagues but are likely to do much better on the Pacific Coast. Sheely should easily be the best first baseman in the minors next season. He has good prospects of being returned to the majors later, as has Sigafoos. Through similar deals the Seals also have secured John Miljus and Jimmy Zinn who ought to help make up for much of the club strength lost through the sales of Jolley and Suhr.

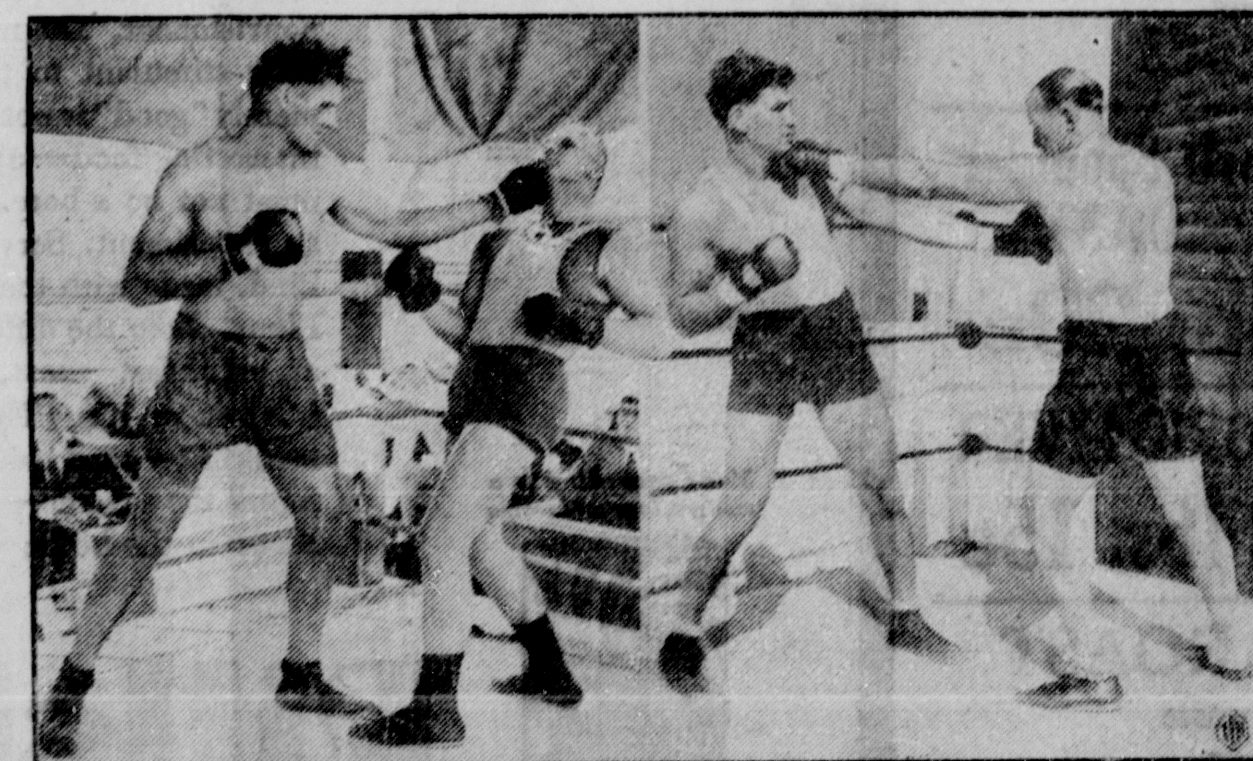

Pittsburgh expects much of Suhr as a socker and first sacker. Last season, Gus walloped 51 homers, 2 triples, and 62 doubles for an average of .381, only six points lower than Jolley's. Suhr has had sufficient seasoning in the miners. Two years ago, the Seals tried him at second base where he proved a flop. Gus was not discouraged and smart direction assigned him to first base. There he was a steady sensation all season, fielding magnificently and pounding out hefty hits with Brazilian regularity.

Last Summer big league scouts got wind of Suhr and Clark Griffith of Washington tried to get him, but a $75,000 price tag blocked the deal. Suhr did not bring that much from the Pirates in cash, but they did have to trade in the able Sheely who is still of big league calibre. In fact, Suhr's speed and comparative youth seem to be the only advantages he holds over Sheely. But they are important when a club is looking for new blood.

INSTALLS LATEST POSTING MACHINES

First National Adds Machines That Are Almost Human in Operation

Due to the increased volume in the checking and saving departments, the First National bank of Brainerd, is installing two of the latest and most modern accounting machines built. They are called the Burroughs Multiple Register Posting and Proving machines, and are the first of its type to be installed in central Minnesota.

"By the installation of these machines," states E. L. Lagerquist, cashier, "We are keeping abreast with the latest accounting methods to insure our customers the best of service and the most accurate method in keeping their accounts."

"The most wonderful achievement of these almost human machines, is their ability to crossfoot and downfoot simultaneously," continues Mr. Lagerquist. "In actual posting operation, checks are subtracted from the previous balance, deposits are added, and the new balance is automatically printed by depressing one key. As a by product, a journal is written of all checks and deposits posted and at the completion of the day, totals of all withdrawals, deposits and new balances, automatically accumulated by the machine, are printed on the journal. Thus, proving that all deposits were posted as deposits, that all withdrawals were posted as withdrawals, that all new balances were extended correctly, that all items were posted to the correct account, and that all items were posted and none omitted. Should checks be drawn for more than the balance due on any account, the machine automatically locks, warning the operator that the account is overdrawn."

In building this machine, the manufacturer had in mind, a machine that would reduce operator fatigue, an easier machine to operate, one that would prevent carelessness, and a machine that would eliminate the mental strain and drudgery of bookkeeping.

The installation is being made this week by E. E. Knauss, representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company of Duluth, and represents an expenditure of $3,250 for the two machines.

WASHINGTON TOUNITED STATES

My Country, that I helped to make and free;
My Country, am I proud of you?
Your prairies spreading westward to the sea;
Your mountains towering upward in the blue.

Your fields of grain, lakes of green and gold;
Your forests, Godly towers, hill and dale;
Your factories turning out unequalled store;
My Country, you are what I wished and more!

Your steamships lord the seas of all domain;
Your products are the best in any land.
Your name is ever breathed out with fame;
Your good will showered out on every hand.

You sit a King where judgments meted out;
You are the first to teach the heathen man;
You are the first in peace, the last in war;
You are designed upon a holy plan.

Your men are known in every state and clime;
Your planes are flown across from pole to pole.
You were my soul, my God, my everything,
And now my idol, you have reached that goal.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

February 20, 1905

Ed Rogers has signed a contract to coach the strong Purdue football team the coming season. He was with Carlisle last year but he and the board of management could not get together this year. His many friends here will be glad to hear he is with Purdue.

The new Swedish M. E. church will be opened for services tomorrow evening with special program. Rev. O. G. Sandberg of Keokuk, Ia., one of Iowa's most popular Swedish speakers and singers will be present. The dedication of the church will take place as soon as it is fully completed which will be as soon as the weather allows.

The board of directors of the Brainerd library have decided to open the reading rooms of the library from 2 to 6 o'clock on Sundays. No books will be given out, however.

Mayor Con O'Brien has the plans for a new creamery which he will build on his lots on Laurel street between his place of business and the railroad track. The creamery will be modern in every respect and one of the best in the northern part of the state. The building will cost about $1500.

B. P. Boyd's case has been continued until Feb. 23 when it will be tried by jury. He is accused of killing three cow moose northwest of Northome Nov. 14 and 18.

Fifty or more members of the Yeomen lodge called on Miss Blanche Woodbury Saturday evening, the event being her birthday anniversary. She was presented with a handsomely engraved gold clock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone will entertain on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Islay McColl.

R. R. Wise has some 30 or 40 men at work clearing away the debris caused by the recent fire on the corner.

February 21, 1905

A half century of wedded life has been the lot of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Batcheller of the city and they are receiving the congratulations of their many friends today. They are the parents of Dr. O. T. Batcheller of the city.

Cass Lake's new school building will be formally dedicated Friday evening and among the speakers will be J. W. Olson, state superintendent of schools, and W. A. Shoenaker, superintendent of the normal at St. Cloud.

Mrs. F. S. Parker returned from St. Cloud today where she has been visiting for some time. The whistle blew at 7 o'clock at the N. P. shops this morning and all the men went in at the same time. They will work now on until further notice from 7 to 6 in the evening. This is

WORLD COURT NEGOTIATIONS

At the next meeting of the League of Women Voters, Mrs. L. F. Hawkins and Mrs. M. W. Richards will review the history of the World Court negotiations with this country. Miss Keith-Clarke, who spoke here on our relations with Canada, has advised Mrs. Hawkins regarding the best way to handle the World Court subject. She has been doing this work in the vicinity of Carleton college all winter.

After this historical review, which will be given in non-technical language and as briefly as is consistent with clearness, the questions on the Root Formula will be asked. The ladies who took the answers to learn at the last meeting, are requested to master these so that there may be no delay in getting a clear understanding of this subject. The entire question will then be opened for a round-table discussion and for any questions that may arise.

This meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon, February 25 at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Charles Trethoske, 312 North 5th street. After the meeting, a dinner will be served similar to the radio dinners of last year. This meeting is open to all members of the League and to all prospective members.

BRAINERDITES IN CALIFORNIA MEET

Talk Over Former Times Here at the Annual Minnesota Picnic

A letter from Miss Sophie Brending of Los Angeles, California, formerly with the Dispatch, states that she and her mother, Mrs. Fred Brending, attended the Minnesota picnic held at Sycamore Grove on February 15. She states thousands of former "Gophers" were present and it took them some time to locate the Crow Wing tree.

"The day was decidedly one of the hottest we have had this winter. Women wore their newest spring gowns and the advance Easter bonnets," she says.

Among those from Brainerd whom they met were G. A. Beale, Miss Mayme Scallen, Edward S. Scallen, John McGregor, Mrs. B. Ankorn, J. D. Armstrong, J. D. Gile, C. B. Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Fogelstrom, John Larson, Dr. May C. Knapp, H. A. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Houghton, D. C. Peacock, Helen Peacock, Lars Ericson, G. W. Moody, E. C. Bane, Dr. and Mrs. K. H. Hoorn, C. Burrell, Mrs. Kate O'Connor, Miss Lucille O'Connor, Warren Powell, B. W. Orne, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton M. Hough, Mrs. Rudolph Glass, Mrs. J. L. Frederick, W. H. Thompson, Miss Mayme Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Russell and daughter, L. R. Tanner, Mrs. Omer Ernster, Mrs. Sam King. Among those from Crosby were Mrs. Anthony Stark, Michael Morris, Wallace Cook, Jr., Mrs. Herbert Whaley, Mr. and Mrs. H. Almquist and Marville Bryant Clark. E. C. Griffith, a former editor of The Dispatch, was also renewing old acquaintances at the picnic.

NO TROUBLE AT ALL NOW

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Has Benefited This Woman

Millions today are eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

The cause of constipation is the lack of roughage in food. Add sufficient roughage and constipation disappears. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is nearly all roughage.

Here is a letter from Mrs. H. Gilbert, 107 E. Knight Ave., Collingswood, N. J., which will be interesting to many sufferers:

"I had a very serious operation in October and when I came from the hospital my main trouble was constipation. One day I said to the doctor, 'I am going to eat ALL-BRAN' and since I started I have no trouble whatever. So you see I can't praise it enough and am always telling my friends what it did for me."

You will enjoy the nut-like flavor of this delicious, ready-to-eat cereal. It is rich in iron, and when eaten with milk or fruit juices, adds important vitamins to the diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is an essential in any reducing diet. It means every-day health to people all over the world. Your grocer has it in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

INSTALLS LATEST POSTING MACHINES

First National Adds Machines That Are Almost Human in Operation

Due to the increased volume in the checking and saving departments, the First National bank of Brainerd, are installing two of the latest and most modern accounting machines built. They are called the Burroughs Multiple Register Posting and Proving machines, and are the first of its type to be installed in central Minnesota.

"By the installation of these machines," states E. L. Lagerquist, cashier, "We are keeping abreast with the latest accounting methods to insure our customers the best of service and the most accurate method in keeping their accounts."

"The most wonderful achievement of these almost human machines, is their ability to crossfoot and downfoot simultaneously," continues Mr. Lagerquist. "In actual posting operation, checks are subtracted from the previous balance, deposits are added, and the new balance is automatically printed by depressing one key. As a by product, a journal is written of all checks and deposits posted and at the completion of the day, totals of all withdrawals, deposits and new balances, automatically accumulated by the machine are printed on the journal. Thus, proving that all deposits were posted as deposits, that all withdrawals were posted as withdrawals, that all new balances were extended correctly, that all items were posted to the correct account, and that all items were posted and none omitted. Should checks be drawn for more than the balance due on any account, the machine automatically locks, warning the operator that the account is overdrawn."

In building this machine, the manufacturer had in mind, a machine that would reduce operator fatigue, an easier machine to operate, one that would prevent carelessness, and a machine that would eliminate the mental strain and drudgery of bookkeeping.

The installation is being made this week by B. E. Knauss, representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine Company of Duluth, and represents an expenditure of $3,250 for the two machines.

WASHINGTON TOUNITED STATES

My Country, that I helped to make and free;

My Country, am I proud of you? Your prairies spreading westward to the sea;

Your mountains towering upward in the blue.

Your fields of grain, lakes of green, and gold;

Your forests, Godly towers, hill and dale;

Your factories turning out unequalled store;

My Country, you are what I wished and more!

Your steamships lord the seas of all domain;

Your products are the best in any land.

Your name is ever breathed out with fame;

Your good will showered out on every hand.

You sit a King where judgments meted out;

You are the first to teach the heathen man;

You are the first in peace, the last in war;

You are designed upon a holy plan.

Your men are known in every state and clime;

Your planes are flown across from pole to pole.

You were my soul, my God, my everything.

And now my Idol, you have reached that goal.

LINCOLN PROGRAM RECALLS FOUNDING

Colorful Program Features Founder's Day Celebration; Cake Significant of Event

LIGHT 33 CANDLES

Impressive Ceremonies Honor Work Done by Past Presidents of Lincoln P. T. A.

At the Lincoln Parent Teachers Association meeting held Thursday afternoon, Founder's Day was celebrated, it being the 33rd anniversary of the founding of the national congress of parents and teachers.

On a table decorated with blue and tan, the P. T. A. colors, and trimmed with jonquils and ferns, a large birthday cake with 33 yellow candles made a setting for the celebration. Mrs. S. Newman gave the significance of Founder's Day, after which she lighted the first candle in honor of Mrs. Theodore Bierney, the first national president of the association.

The next few candles were lighted by the past presidents of the Lincoln P. T. A. in honor of different divisions of the parent teacher work. These past presidents were Mrs. Ben Armstrong, Mrs. A. M. Opsahl, Mrs. Walter Kunitz, Mrs. Carl Bentley, Mrs. Ray Paine, Mrs. Roy Hall and Mrs. Frank Little who lit the candles in place of her husband Mayor Little, the present president of the association.

The remainder of the candles were lighted by the Lincoln school teachers and some of the parent teacher members, every candle standing for some part of the work of the association.

After the lighting of the first candle, the Parent Teacher tribute song was sung, and after the lighting of the last candle "America" was sung, all standing throughout the entire services. A penny march was then held for the Founder's Day fund.

When the luncheon was served Mrs. Ray Paine cut the birthday cake and Mrs. S. Newman served it. Mrs. Paine, Mrs. Newman and Miss Alta Franklin arranged the splendid program.

In addition to the Founder's Day program there was a regular meeting and the regular program, the numbers of which were: a song sung by little Marcella Holm "If Washington Were Here Now" the words of which had been modernized by Mrs. Harry Paine. Miss Effie Drexler accompanied her at the piano. Two Colonial playlets were also given by the pupils of Miss Franklin's room which were greatly enjoyed and appreciated by all present. The teachers of the Lincoln building then served the luncheon.

Miss Germaine's room captured the picture which was given for the largest parent attendance.

This was an outstanding day in the Lincoln Parent Teacher work, and one long to be remembered by those who were privileged to enjoy it.

ROMEO WALKS BRIDE ON HIGHWAY, JAILED

Father of Minor Girl Charges Charles W. Hyatt With Abduction; Bonds Set at $1,000

MARRIED AT WALKER

Leave After Marriage With 30 Cents in Pocket, Hitchhiked to Bemidji

Charles W. Hyatt of West Brainerd was determined he would marry. He went to the girl's father and asked his daughter's hand. The father told him he could not marry her because the girl was under age and that he was not in a position to support her.

On February 18 Hyatt and the girl decided to go to Walker to marry. They reached the town after walking for miles and securing rides from motorists on the road.

A marriage license was secured and the couple was married. After paying for the marriage license and the official marrying them Hyatt had 30 cents to his credit. The couple then started out on the highway again and after walking and securing rides they reached Bemidji late that day. At Bemidji the two were given lodging by a relative for the night. The next morning Hyatt was arrested by Sheriff Johnson at Bemidji and the two were returned to Brainerd by Sheriff Claus A. Theorin and Deputy Charles Ober.

This morning Hyatt was arraigned in municipal court on the charge of abduction. He waived preliminary hearing and was held to district court on bonds of $1,000. He has as yet failed to raise the bonds.

Hyatt recently faced the municipal court on an assault charge following a clash with a member of the Riverside P. T. A. He was found guilty of the charge and served a sentence in the city jail.

AT HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Presented Again Tonight, Play Sponsored by St. Francis Guild

Six hundred citizens put on their Sunday go meeting clothes, some encouraged by the unseasonal entry of spring to don early spring modes, to see "A Prince in Rags" home talent production at the new high school auditorium, sponsored by the St. Francis Guild of the Catholic church last evening.

The play will be presented at the auditorium again this evening and will attract a similar number as indicated by the advance seat sale.

"A Prince in Rags" carries the theme of villainy vs. heroism and for a while it looked as though the villain, played by A. C. Mraz would accomplish what he had set out to do, win the hand and heart of the heroine, played by Miss Margaret Anderson, and place behind the bars the unfortunate prince of the highway, played by Richard Krantz.

But right will win and so it was that after all entanglements had been corrected, the villain exposed, the play ended happily with the villain through persuasive methods winning his pardon and the gallant hero played by Mike Barrett the love of France.

"A Prince in Rags" proved to be none other than the same production as "A Noble Outcast" given at the old Park theatre six years ago in which Miss Ella Sears, Miss Ella Olson, E. Leo McCaffrey, Walter Cleary, J. E. Hurley, J. J. Nolan, Frank Sears and Edward Imgrund had parts.

Four specialty numbers stood out as the best hits of the evening, the chorus numbers of the Lilliputian chorus with Jerry Bogganatos doing a toe dance very gracefully, the dance team of Katherine Wyatt and Ray Nelson, violin solos by Julius Witham.

FORD COAL is carefully screened and graded by experts. When you order the proper size for your furnace, you're saving money, for the uniformity prevents good coal dropping through your grate into your ash pit. It's all coal, too—clean coal, picked free of all grate-clogging impurities by men trained to the rigid standards of the Ford Motor Company.

These are reasons why you'll have less furnace-fussing with Ford Coal. But the main thing in a fuel is its heating quality. Ford Coal comes from Ford-owned and operated mines, chosen after chemical analysis showed the higher quality of the fuel. A higher percentage of fixed carbon gives you more heat—and the coal, if properly fired, burns to a small amount of ash which does not clinker.

LINCOLN PROGRAM RECALLS FOUNDING

Colorful Program Features Founder's Day Celebration; Cake Significant of Event

LIGHT 33 CANDLES

Impressive Ceremonies Honor Work Done by Past Presidents of Lincoln P. T. A.

At the Lincoln Parent Teachers Association meeting held Thursday afternoon, Founder's Day was celebrated, it being the 33rd anniversary of the founding of the national congress of parents and teachers.

On a table decorated with blue and tan, the P. T. A. colors, and trimmed with jonquils and ferns, a large birthday cake with 33 yellow candles made a setting for the celebration. Mrs. S. Newman gave the significance of Founder's Day, after which she lighted the first candle in honor of Mrs. Theodore Bierney, the first national president of the association.

The next few candles were lighted by the past presidents of the Lincoln P. T. A. in honor of different divisions of the parent teacher work. These past presidents were Mrs. Ben Armstrong, Mrs. A. M. Opsahl, Mrs. Walter Kunitz, Mrs. Carl Bentley, Mrs. Ray Paine, Mrs. Roy Hall and Mrs. Frank Little who lit the candles in place of her husband Mayor Little, the present president of the association.

The remainder of the candles were lighted by the Lincoln school teachers and some of the parent teacher members, every candle standing for some part of the work of the association.

After the lighting of the first candle, the Parent Teacher tribute song was sung, and after the lighting of the last candle "America" was sung, all standing throughout the entire services. A penny march was then held for the Founder's Day fund.

When the luncheon was served Mrs. Ray Paine cut the birthday cake and Mrs. S. Newman served it. Mrs. Paine, Mrs. Newman and Miss Alia Franklin arranged the splendid program.

In addition to the Founder's Day program there was a regular meeting and the regular program, the numbers of which were: a song sung by little Marcelle Holm "If Washington Were Here Now" the words of which had been modernized by Mrs. Harry Paine, Miss Effie Drexler accompanied her at the piano. Two Colonial playlets were also given by the pupils of Miss Franklin's room which were greatly enjoyed and appreciated by all present. The teachers of the Lincoln building then served the luncheon.

Miss Germaine's room captured the picture which was given for the largest parent attendance.

This was an outstanding day in the Lincoln Parent Teacher work, and one long to be remembered by those who were privileged to enjoy it.

ROMEO WALKS BRIDE ON HIGHWAY, JAILED

Father of Minor Girl Charges Charles W. Hyatt With Abduction; Bonds Set at $1,000

MARRIED AT WALKER

Leave After Marriage With 30 Cents in Pocket, Hitchhiked to Bemidji

Charles W. Hyatt of West Brainerd was determined he would marry. He went to the girl's father and asked his daughter's hand. The father told him he could not marry her because the girl was under age and that he was not in a position to support her.

On February 18 Hyatt and the girl decided to go to Walker to marry. They reached the town after walking for miles and securing rides from motorists on the road.

A marriage license was secured and the couple was married. After paying for the marriage license and the official marrying them Hyatt had 30 cents to his credit. The couple then started out on the highway again and after walking and securing rides they reached Bemidji late that day. At Bemidji the two were given lodging by a relative for the night. The next morning Hyatt was arrested by Sheriff Johnson at Bemidji and the two were returned to Brainerd by Sheriff Claus A. Theorin and Deputy Charles Oberg.

This morning Hyatt was arraigned in municipal court on the charge of abduction. He waived preliminary hearing and was held to district court on bonds of $1,000. He has as yet failed to raise the bonds.

Hyatt recently faced the municipal court on an assault charge following a clash with a member of the Riverside P. T. A. He was found guilty of the charge and served a sentence in the city jail.

BODY OF EIELSON TAKEN BY PLANE TO FAIRBANKS

AT FAIRBANKS REMAINS WILL BE GIVEN IN KEEPING OF
EIELSON'S FATHER

ESCORT OF AMERICAN AND SO-
VIET RESCUE PLANES ACCOM-
PANY FUNERAL PLANE

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Accompanied by an escort of American and Soviet rescue planes, the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson, Arctic flier, and his mechanic, Earl Borland, were enroute to Fairbanks today in planes piloted by Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam.

At Fairbanks the remains of the aviators will be given into the keeping of Eielson's father, and Mrs. Borland and her two small children.

Eielson and Borland were killed about nine weeks ago when their plane crashed in a heavy fog. They were flying to the trading vessel Nanuk on a rescue mission at the time.

Soviet fliers at the scene of the wreck for some weeks, aiding in the search for the lost fliers prior to the finding of their wrecked plane by Crosson and subsequent finding of the bodies of Borland and Eielson, are highly commended in dispatches for their work. The state department granted them permission to accompany the bodies to Fairbanks as a guard of honor.

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 21.—A shroud of fog hung over the northland today. It was a barrier to the last and homecoming flight of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland.

Anxiously, a group of Americans and Russians at the ice-bound motor ship Nanuk in Siberia and the people of Alaska looked toward the Bering Sea for the fog to lift, that the bodies of the two fliers might be brought to their families.

At Teller Pilot Pat Reid waited with his plane under directions of the Alaska airways to take off for the Nanuk at the first opportunity with gasoline for the exhausted supply of the fliers in Siberia.

The pilots, Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam, who searched for weeks for the bodies of their comrades last Nov. 9 in attempting to fly from Nome to the Nanuk, will make their 500-mile flight across the icy stretches to Nome and then to Fairbanks.

At Fairbanks Ole Eielson, father of one of the fliers and Mrs. Earl Borland and her two small children await. The fog has hung low over Bering Sea for several days.

Reid came to Nome for the purpose of obtaining gasoline and his return has since been impossible.

When the air cortege makes its trip the two Soviet planes from the locked ship Stavropol, under leadership of Commander Slipenov, will come to America. Also there will be the Canadian, Pat Reid, with the fliers from the United States.

Men of the north today gave highest commendation to Slipenov and his men for their work in the long days of the hunt for the bodies about the wreckage of the plane.

The state department has granted permission for the Russians to fly their planes with the men they met in the barren land as an escort to the dead fliers.

Eielson's body was found Tuesday and that of Borland was located five days previously.

The senior Eielson will claim his son's body at Fairbanks and take it to the United States. The body of Borland, a resident of Seattle, probably will be buried in Fairbanks, the home of his wife.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT FINED FOR SPEEDING

PLEADS GUILTY TO DRIVING A
CAR OVER 30 MILES AN HOUR
IN CITY TRAFFIC

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, was fined $10 in traffic court today on a charge of driving her automobile "in excess of thirty miles an hour" near the downtown section last night.

Mrs. Willebrandt appeared in court and entered a plea of guilty.

Mrs. Willebrandt hurried from the building and left in a taxicab as the case was concluded. She escaped a battery of cameramen, who arrived a few minutes later.

The case came up before Judge Ralph Givens this morning after several delays, one of which was due to "mysterious disappearance" of papers concerning the case. Later the papers were found in the court files.

Policeman William B. Hopkins, who gave Mrs. Willebrandt the speeding "ticket," asserted that he had followed her car for several blocks and that she was traveling about 38 miles an hour.

Since retiring from the department of justice, where she gained national attention through her numerous attempts to dry up New York City, Mrs. Willebrandt has been practicing law here, appearing as counsel for the Aviation Corporation.

Scene from "Honky Tonk" with Sophie Tucker—A Warner Bros. Production

Sophie Tucker Sings Hits in "Honky Tonk"

A dual existence is led by Sophie Tucker in "Honky Tonk," Warner Bros. latest, talking, singing Vitaphone production showing at the Paramount Saturday only—in which she makes her initial appearance as a screen star, after many years as the premiere "red hot mamma" of the stage. Though she is the principal entertainer in a notorious night club, the story reveals that she is in reality a lover of home, and merely follows her vocation that her daughter may be maintained in a fashionable European school.

In this production the dynamic Sophie renders many of her hurricane songs, bringing to the screen the artistry that long ago established her as a favorite of the millions.

WARM WEATHER HAS BAD EFFECT ON THE HIGHWAYS

ROAD SURFACES SOFT AND
SLOPPY IN PLACES ON UN-
PAVED HIGHWAYS

WHEN A FREEZE UP FOLLOWS
SURFACES WILL BECES-
SARILY BE ROUGH

Warm weather during the past week has had a bad effect on unpaved highways, according to the weekly road condition report issued by the Minnesota Highway department today. Due to thawing, road surfaces in the southern part of the state are soft and sloppy, and when this freezes, they will be rough. With one exception all routes are reported passable and most of the routes are still fair, a few being reported poor. In the northern part of the state the highways are generally good.

Detailed reports of conditions or routes are reported passable and most state trunk routes in the Brainerd Lake Region follow:

T. H. No. 2.—Duluth, Brainerd, Wadena, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead—260 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good—Hawley, paved—Moorhead.

T. H. No. 18.—Elk River, Milaca and Brainerd—103 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 19.—Brainerd, Walker and Cass Lake—93 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 27.—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—62 miles—Paved.

REVISED INSURANCE RATES OF MODERN WOODMEN UPHELD

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—(U.P.)—Revised insurance rates of the Modern Woodmen of America were upheld in the state supreme court here today when it affirmed the judgment of the Cook county circuit court which had denied an order seeking to enjoin the fraternal organization from putting the new rates into effect.

A minority group had attacked the rates as unfair on the ground that they were discriminatory. The supreme court's ruling is a reversal of its decision in December when it reversed the lower court and ordered the injunction placed in force.

BODY OF EIELSON TAKEN BY PLANE TO FAIRBANKS

AT FAIRBANKS REMAINS WILL BE GIVEN IN KEEPING OF
EIELSON'S FATHER

ESCORT OF AMERICAN AND SO-
VIET RESCUE PLANES ACCOM-
PANY FUNERAL PLANE

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 21.—(UP)—Accompanied by an escort of American and Soviet rescue planes, the bodies of Carl Ben Eielson, Arctic flier, and his mechanic, Earl Borland, were enroute to Fairbanks today in planes piloted by Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam.

At Fairbanks the remains of the airmen will be given into the keeping of Eielson's father, and Mrs. Borland and her two small children.

Eielson and Borland were killed about nine weeks ago when their plane crashed in a heavy fog. They were flying to the trading vessel Nanuk on a rescue mission at the time.

Soviet fliers at the scene of the wreck for some weeks, aiding in the search for the lost fliers prior to the finding of their wrecked plane by Crosson and subsequent finding of the bodies of Borland and Eielson, are highly commended in dispatches for their work. The state department granted them permission to accompany the bodies to Fairbanks as a guard of honor.

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 21.—A shroud of fog hung over the northland today. It was a barrier to the last and homecoming flight of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland.

Anxiously, a group of Americans and Russians at the ice-bound motor ship Nanuk in Siberia and the people of Alaska looked toward the Bering Sea for the fog to lift, that the bodies of the two fliers might be brought to their families.

At Teller Pilot Pat Reid waited with his plane under directions of the Alaska airways to take off for the Nanuk at the first opportunity with gasoline for the exhausted supply of the fliers in Siberia.

The pilots, Joe Crosson and Harold Gillam, who searched for weeks for the bodies of their comrades lost Nov. 9 in attempting to fly from Nome to the Nanuk, will make their 500-mile funeral flight across the icy stretches to Nome and then to Fairbanks.

At Fairbanks Ole Eielson, father of one of the fliers and Mrs. Earl Borland and her two small children await.

The fog has hung low over Bering Sea for several days.

Reid came to Nome for the purpose of obtaining gasoline and his return has since been impossible.

When the air cortege makes its trip the two Soviet planes from the locked ship Stavropol under leadership of Commander Slipenkov will come to America. Also there will be the Canadian, Pat Reid, with the fliers from the United States.

Men of the north today gave highest commendation to Slipenkov and his men for their work in the long days of the hunt for the bodies about the wreckage of the plane.

The state department has granted permission for the Russians to fly their planes with the men they met in the barren land as an escort to the dead fliers.

Eielson's body was found Tuesday and that of Borland was located five days previously.

The senior Eielson will claim his son's body at Fairbanks and take it to the United States. The body of Borland, resident of Seattle, probably will be buried in Fairbanks, the home of his wife.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT FINED FOR SPEEDING

PLEADS GUILTY TO DRIVING A
CAR OVER 30 MILES AN HOUR
IN CITY TRAFFIC

Washington, Feb. 21.—(UP)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, was fined $10 in traffic court today on a charge of driving her automobile "in excess of thirty miles an hour" near the downtown section last night.

Mrs. Willebrandt appeared in court and entered a plea of guilty.

Mrs. Willebrandt hurried from the building and left in a taxicab as the case was concluded. She escaped a battery of cameramen, who arrived a few minutes later.

The case came up before Judge Ralph Glavin this morning after several delays, one of which was due to "mysterious disappearance" of papers concerning the case. Later the papers were found in the court files.

Policeman William B. Hopkins, who gave Mrs. Willebrandt the speeding "ticket," asserted that he had followed her car for several blocks and that she was traveling about 38 miles an hour.

Since retiring from the department of justice, where she gained national attention through her numerous attempts to dry up New York City, Mrs. Willebrandt has been practicing law here, appearing as counsel for the Aviation Corporation.

Scene from "Honky Tonk" with Sophie Tucker—A Warner Bros. Production

Sophie Tucker Sings Hits in "Honky Tonk"

A dual existence is led by Sophie Tucker in "Honky Tonk." Warner Bros. latest, talking, singing Vitaphone production showing at the Paramount Saturday only in which she makes her initial appearance as a screen star, after many years as the premiere "red hot mamma" of the stage. Though she is the principal entertainer in a notorious night club, the story reveals that she is in reality a lover of home, and merely follows her vocation that her daughter may be maintained in a fashionable European school.

In this production the dynamic Sophie renders many of her hurricane songs, bringing to the screen the artistry that long ago established her as a favorite of the millions.

WARM WEATHER HAS BAD EFFECT ON THE HIGHWAYS

ROAD SURFACES SOFT AND
SLOPPY IN PLACES ON UN-
PAVED HIGHWAYS

WHEN A FREEZE UP FOLLOWS
SURFACES WILL NEED
SARILY BE ROUGH

Warm weather during the past week has had a bad effect on unpaved highways, according to the weekly road condition report issued by the Minnesota Highway department today. Due to thawing, road surfaces in the southern part of the state are soft and sloppy, and when this freezes, they will be rough. With one exception all routes are reported passable and most of the routes are still fair, a few being reported poor. In the northern part of the state the highways are generally good.

Detailed reports of conditions or routes are reported passable and most state trunk routes in the Brainerd Lake Reichen follow:

T. H. No. 2—Duluth, Brainerd, Wadena, Detroit Lakes and Moorhead—260 miles—Duluth, paved—Carlton, good—Hawley, paved—Moorhead.

T. H. No. 18—Elk River, Milaca and Brainerd—103 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 19—Brainerd, Walker and Cass Lake—93 miles—Good.

T. H. No. 27—St. Cloud, Little Falls and Brainerd—62 miles—Paved.

REVISIED INSURANCE RATES OF MODERN
WOODMEN UPHELD

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—(UP)—Revised insurance rates of the Modern Woodmen of America were upheld in the state supreme court here today when it confirmed the judgment of the Cook county circuit court which had denied an order seeking to enjoin the fraternal organization from putting the new rates into effect.

A minority group had attacked the rates as unfair on the ground that they were discriminatory. The supreme court's ruling is a reversal of its decision in December when it reversed the lower court and ordered the injunction placed in force.
